OPPOSE ORGANIZATION OF KU KLUX IN COUNTY

Mass Meeting at Mayor's Office Adopts Resolutions. Say Klan Not Needed in County. Good Audience Greets Klan Speaker at Court House Tuesday Night.

An appointment was made for Dr. Newton, said to be a minister of the Gospel, to speak at the court house in Grenada Tuesday night in the interest of the Ku Klux Klan.

The Doctor came. He had a good audience, the court house being fully half filled. He was presented by a gentleman who was in Grenada last spring talking Ku Klux.

The Doctor said a great many good things. He covered a wide field He was rather strong in his language in branding statements made in the press about what the Ku Klux had done. He charged that the newspapers of the country, especially the dailies, were opposed to the Ku Klux and that the press was largely controlled either by Catholic influence or by Jewish influence. He omitted to state that the newspapers of the country, in their record of happenings, very nearly record what is the sentiment of the people from whence they write.

Dr. Newton stated, among other things ,that the Klan was the foe of the gambler, the still owner, the bootlegger, the destroyer of womanhood and especially was he severe on the white slavers. In several of his statements in which he strongly enunciated the position of the Klan on moral and social matters, he said that the Klan stands for these things, if you do not, then you oppose the Klan.

If the Doctor is a minister and the Lord called him to preach, he failed to state when that "call" had been changed to something else. In speculating on why the Doctor is not now talking the riches of Christ, one might have surmised that the Doctor is finding more revenue in talking for the Ku Klux than he did in preaching—in other words that he is fooling himself into thinking that God wants him to work where he can get the most money—a thing a good many preachers are sometimes thought to be doing nowadays.

He concluded by saying the Klan invited no one to join, that the matter of joining had to be free and voluntary, but in the very face of that statement one could not help but think that the Doctor's speech and the visit of himself and others to Grenada was a pretty strong indication that an invitation, and a pretty urgent one, was being extended to anybody who would, to join the Klan.

There were many of the leading business forces of the County, knowing of the visit of members of the Klan to the County and anticipating what might be said by Dr. Newton Tuesday night, to assemble at the Mayor's office Tuesday afternoon to discuss the advisability or the non-advisability, of organizing a Klan in the County. There was nothing drastic said at the meeting. There was nothing said that could have wounded the feelings of the most enthusiastic member of the Klan. Short talks were made by Dr. J. W. Young, Mr. W. M .Dubard, Dr. H. T. Rogers, W. B. Hoffa and O. F. Lawrence. Dr. Young was a Confederate soldier and knew something of the Klan as known after the close of the Civil War, but he said it was not needed today and he believed it would be hurtful to the country. Especially did the Doctor think that the wearing of masks or hoods a thing that would likely do incalculable harm. The resolutions by the meeting speak for themselves, as follows:

The Constitution of the United States guarantees to the people of this country the right to peacefully assemble at any time to discuss such matters as they believe relate to the public welfare so long as such meetings or assemblies do not interfere with the agencies and activities of the Government when at war. This right is one of the beacon lights that has illumined the pathway of the country for these years.

Honest differences of opinion, American individualism, the unwritten creed of our Nation to develop in every man the power to think properly and to act after mature and conscientious deliberation, has been one of the fundamentals in the corner stone of the ark of the American covenant.

No thoughtful person will deny that our country is at present beset with many ills. There are many grave problems vexing the wisest and the best. But we do not believe that there are any ills which cannot be cured by the emulation of the Life of the Savior of mankind. We do not believe that there are any problems which cannot be solved by following the lessons so beautifully and so sublimely taught in the Sermon on the Mount, out of which comes, among the first things, the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man.

We do not need to further multiply our organizations. We have enough of man-made things and man-made organizations already.

We have reason to believe that efforts will be made, and are perhaps being made now, to form a Ku Klux Klan in Grenada County. However patriotic and benignant the aims and the purposes of those promoting this organization may be, we most respectfully assert that we do not believe that a Ku Klux Klan is needed in Grenada County. As a whole our people are living in love and charity with their neighbors. We have no lawless bands; we believe our legally constituted authorities are willing and are able to cope with whatever lawbreaking there is in the County. We make this last statement without conceding that any form of "invisible government" is needed in times of peace in this beautiful land of ours. We honestly believe that a Ku Klux Klan would still further complicate whatever perplexing matters confront us.

Upon information which comes to us, we are not here to deny that there are many good, true and noble men in the Ku Klux in different parts of the country. It is not our purpose to censure them or to pass adversely upon what they believe or what they have done. That is a matter for them and their God.

Regardless of any honest endeavor of the Ku Klux, it must be recognized that it must make up its members from the men already in any community. We have the churches, the Sunday Schools, and sundry church organizations. We have the Masonic fraternity and other kindred orders, and it seems to us that if these societies and organizations have not brought to the fore the best in our citizenship, that it cannot be aroused by any man-made order now. Any order or organization must use men to accomplish its purposes, and the mere joining of an order does not make men over. It takes a regeneration which comes from above that makes men put on the full armour of good citizenship.

With this premise, it is hereby Resolved by a mass meeting of representative citizens of Grenada County that in our judgment the organization of a Ku Klux Klan in Grenada County at this time would be highly prejudicial to the common good of all our people.

Resolved fur her, That we deem any organization of that character, regardless of any good intentions, entirely unnecessary in our County affairs, and that we most respectfully urge upon any and all who may be thinking of organizing or joining the Ku Klux to think seriously and deliberately before taking a step that so many of the serious minded, best citizens of Grenada County believe would work incalculable harm to the general welfare of our people.

TATE COUNTY MAN TO THE FORE AGAIN

Coldwater, Miss., Jan. 14, 1923.
Editor Grenada Sentinel:

Soon the place that knew John Sharpe Williams will know him no more. We have not a man within the limits of the South that can fill his place, more's the pity. We have a world of politicians but few statesmen and among these few John Sharpe Williams shines resplendent. Having the courage of his convictions he has the language with which to express them, caring not a cuss who it hurts just so he is right. Crossing swords as he often does he never leaves the field vanquished but more often victor in every way. Representing the best traditions of the Old South he has caused them to be respected in a field where they had long since lost their savor. Not a great orator he has never sought the applause of the rabble but has done what he thought was best for his State and Nation and when he quits his seat in the Senate on he 4th of March every one whether of his party or not will know that a place has been vacated that can never be filled again. Hubert Stephens has a great task before him and realizes it. Following such a man as Williams will make it especially hard upon him for his actions and words will be constantly contrasted with those of the great man whom he succeeds. Let us do all we can to hold up his hands as we did in his great fight last year. There is one thing that we can all count on from Stephens and that is that he will conduct himself modestly, and will do his work honestly and efficiently as God gives him the light to see his duty. Give him a chance. So much for Mr. Williams.

I understand that our mutual friend Mr. Editor, Walker Wood of Winona is being urged by some of the best people of the State to make the race for Secretary of State. I know of no man who would make a better and I hope he wins if he runs. I have known him intimately for more than twenty years and I have never known a better man. Clean and decent in his habits, choice in his language, happy in his home relations and his family, he is the most generous mortal that I have ever known. More than half of his work is given to promote the interests of his friends, thinking little of his own ambitions. Now when such a man asks for something for himself if a generous public will only repay him for doing so much for them by doing half as much for him his election will follow as surely as the sun rises. Then let's all get busy for Wood and put him over.

SIXTEEN MONTH'S OLD CHILD DIES

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Traylor were called upon last Saturday to give up their lovely 16 months old daughter, Lorene Elizabeth. The funeral services were conducted Sunday afternoon by Rev. W. E. Farr of the First Baptist church. The grief stricken parents should take consolation in the fact that the going away of their little daughter but increases their interest in heaven. The life of their pure little daughter serves to show once again that heaven is made up of only the best. May the sorrowing ones join at the last day this little flower which has been plucked in the dew of its morning.

GREAT RELIGIOUS GATHERING AT JACKSON

Methodists of Both Conferences Meet To Lay Out Better Plans for Work. The Rural Church and Other Problems. Laymen's Meet Follows.

Jackson, Miss., Jan. 16—The great conference called by Bishop Ainsworth, the presiding Bishop of both Methodist Conferences of Mississippi, assembled at Galloway Memorial church last night. Immediately folfowing this, or rather one merges into the other, is a conference of the laymen of Mississippi.

The welcome address was made by Mr. Fred Sullens, and among other things Mr. Sullens used these significant words to emphasize how little church lines amount to in the great battle for the principles of a Risen Lord:

"We welcome you to Jackson as good sports and good fighters," said Mr. Sullens. "You are willing always to fight side by side with any man who is battling for the same great cause, and you never stop to criticise his uniform, examine the pattern of his gun, or ask what ammunition he is using. You are concerned only in the fact that he is striving to reach the same objective."

Rural Churches Predominate

A feature today was the address of Dr. W. A. Taylor, Indianapolis, rural church specialist of national note.

Dr. Taylor prefaced his address by stating that "90 per cent of all the missionaries of all denominations are from the country church, 85 per cent of the preachers of all protestantism and 66 per cent of the teachers and church officials of all the several denominations in the United States are likewise from the rural churches."

"The rural church is still recruiting ground for supplying the leadership in both church and state in every field.

"The country church needs above all things adequate shepherding and yet we neglect it and lay heavy burdens upon it and see to it that our returned missionaries and great educational leaders deliver their addresses in the city churches, where the large audiences may be available. Dr Gaunsauls, of one of our larger cities made a survey of a class of 100 leading men in the life and thought of the nation in many different fields and found that more than two-thirds of these leaders were from the country churches. While I am not a Methodist I am ready to admit, brethren, that you Methodists, because of your wonderful system, have the largest capacity for reaching out and developing a people of any of the great denominations."

Dr. Taylor gave many instances of the need of the country church as found by himself in his wide experience of several years. He said "Country churches are languishing today because of the moving away of its enterprising leadership in the point where its working capacity is destroyed. Now as to the remedy," said Dr. Taylor, in conclusion, "I have studied this matter too long to have an opinion. Ask some one who knows nothing about it and you will readily receive a remedy for the whole situation."

His idea though was that the town and city people should include in their programme of extension the rural church.

Bishop Tells of Investigation

Bishop Ainsworth always having the right word at the right time, spoke a few words at this point, giving the result of his recent investigation through the presiding elders that Mississippi has a population of 1,800,000, and more than a million and a half of these people live in rural territory. The bishop stated that Methodism in Mississippi has today more than 800 country churches where preaching is held only once monthly.

The bishop was quick to advise however, that this condition must be promptly corrected and will be corrected after this conference when presiding elders, lay leaders and ministers of the several districts will apply the plan wrought out and that service will soon be held every Sabbath by either minister or layman in every one of the 800 rural churches.

Features of the afternoon and evening hours were addresses on the great fundamentals by Dr. Charles Goodell of New York and Dr. Andrew Sledd of Atlanta.

Dr. Goodell sounded a warning against pessimism, saying that "My father at the age of 92 told me that things were not nearly as good as they were when he was a boy and he also said that his father had told him the same thing.

"George Washington deplored the decay of patriotism in his day.

"The Bible is still true. Jesus Christ still saves just as he did in the long ago," advised the New York man amid loud "Amens" coming from many portions of the auditorium.

The opening gun fired last night was a real Big Bertha. Dr. Charles Goodell, of New York. His subject was "The Supreme Task of the Church."

Some High Points in his Address

The one Holy fellowship that is to abide is the Church of the Living God. I would advise any man who wants to do a work that will last when the dust of centuries has covered all human structure to throw his soul into the only effort that will survive the wreck of matter and the crush of worlds, so that when the

WESTERN SUBSCRIBER WRITES OF TRUCKING

What Was Done Out There Might Be Followed With Profit in Grenada County, Thinks Latimer. Is Always Interested in Grenada, He Says.

Porterville, Calif., Jan. 6, 1923.
Editor Grenada Sentinel:

I note you have had quite a bit to say recently about truck farming, and the many varieties one farmer has raised.

Still feeling an interest in Mississippi and especially in Grenada, I thought I would make a suggestion regarding truck growing.

All over Imperial Valley, and surrounding Los Angeles, there are thousands of acres of land devoted exclusively to truck growing. This truck is shipped all over the U. S. and is also exported, and likewise all the towns and cities of California are supplied, not however, with the choice articles, but with what is left after the best is shipped east and across the waters.

These tremendous truck farms have expert box-makers and packers and they put up a very nice pack. The local truck growers around Porterville could find no market for their truck. The same state of affairs applied at all small cities elsewhere in the state. The big growers were monopolizing the market at the expense of the small growers and the public in general. Every day large vans loaded to the top with all varieties of vegetables would supply all towns in a radius of 100 miles. The refrigerator cars on the railroad supplied those further along. While everything they sold was first class and tempting, the price was startling. The people and folks in general who consumed this truck got impatient regarding the price. Result: A big free market was started in San Francisco. All the farmers and truck growers were invited to bring what they had to this market and sell it themselves, no charge for space to display goods. In a very short time they had to get a much larger place. The towns fell in line rapidly all down the valley. Some 60 days ago Porterville opened a free market and invited the farmers to bring what they had to sell. Mind you, this market is only for Saturday. The first Saturday only three came and offered some few things. The next Saturday there were about a dozen. Today I went to the free market and counted seventy-six stands. I found every variety of vegetables and fruit to be had at this season of the year. Also chickens, turkeys, geese and ducks, fresh meat of all sorts, every kind of home-made preserves and pickles, almonds, English walnuts and pecans, also peanuts, pinders and goobers, and one old lady had some old fashioned Mississippi lye hominy (I bought some). I saw nice fat steers, sheep, hogs, goats and rabbits for sale, as well as a lot of second hand farming implements and automobiles. The lot we have is too small, and the town is going to rent a larger one and put shed over it and divide into stalls.

The merchants kicked about this at first, but now they are much in favor of making it a big success. Why? After these farmers sell what they bring in they go to the merchant and spend the money for such goods needed and which they cannot produce.

If Grenada will try this using the little square to begin with, you will soon find it necessary to get a much larger place, and many of your farmers will put in some truck and every one of them will try to make the best. Try it.

Wishing you and balance of Grenada folks to accept a portion of my good wishes for their success all times of this 1923 year, I am,

Your friend,
H. W. Latimer.

STOCKHOLDERS OF BANK MEET FOR TWENTIETH TIME

Last Year Said To Be Best in History Grenada Bank & Trust Co. Declares 24 Per Cent Dividend. Handsome Sum Passed to Surplus Account.

When victory after victory has come to an army, or success after success to a business enterprise, it gets to be a sort of matter of course that such things are to be repeated, and the leaders, or those upon whom the burden of directorship lie, are given but scant commendation for keeping up the record. But when a success eclipses all past successes, it is meet and proper for those who profit, or who are favored, by what has been done to grow enthusiastic over what has been accomplished. This may properly be said to have been the attitude of mind of the stockholders of the Grenada Trust & Banking Co. at their annual meeting on January 11.

The Grenada Trust & Banking Co. is a stalwart banking institution. Its management have seemed to be willing to follow the well marked out paths of the banking world rather than to undertake to scale the mountain side, or break through the financial forests where many banking institutions have met a demise. And it is a great thing to be ready to profit by the experience and observation of others. It is a most commendable thing to be willing to act upon the rules that have given others success.

It is a fact universally deprecated that the younger generation blindly refuses to capitalize the experience of their parents. It is no uncommon thing to hear it said, "Oh, if I had followed the well directed lines taught by my parents, I would have been spared this defeat or this failure." It is generally regarded as the part of wisdom to "play safe" always with any business project, and especially where a business is the custodian of funds held in trust for others. "Safety, surety and profit" it seems, are prominent in the creed of the Grenada Trust & Banking Co. The officers of a bank labor not for themselves alone, but the hundreds who with their money have made the bank possible. Thus it comes that among the first duties of the officers of a bank is the one to make a profit for the stockholders. This the officers of the Grenada Trust and Banking Co. have steadfastly done.

The report of the officers showed that the past year had been the most prosperous in all the Bank's history of twenty years. A dividend of 24 per cent was paid to the stockholders besides a handsome sum that was passed to the surplus account which adds still further to the financial strength of the Bank. The Bank has paid some splendid dividends every year since its organization, and now has a surplus of $30,000.00 or $10,000.00 more than its original capital stock. The Bank's statement shows that it does not owe a single dollar to any other bank. One rather remarkable thing in the history of this institution is that during the trying period of two years ago, when most banking institutions were stretched like a wet shoe string, this one met every demand of its customers with its own funds. It did not borrow anything.

The alert, affable, courteous and keen sighted president, Mr. H. J. Ray, was named to succeed himself. The accurate, obliging and most efficient cashier, Mr. W. K. Huffington, was reelected, so also was the very satisfactory bookkeeper, Miss Tommie Hamilton.

The following board of directors was named: H. J. Ray, Cowles Horton, Claud Hall, Dr. B. S. Dudley, Dr. J. P. Broadstreet, W. F. Martin, R. H. Stokes, R. Doak and A. Gerard, all good citizens and among the town's most astute business factors.

The stockholders of the Grenada Trust & Banking Co. take great pride in the fact that, rated according to capital and surplus, their Bank is one of the strongest in the State, all of which would seem to argue that it is the expectation of the management to enlarge the activities of the Bank and to get more intimately in touch with a larger number of people.

ROBERT TOOMBS' VOICE FROM THE DISTANT PAST

How the Georgia Statesman Looked at Raids on the Federal Treasury in His Day. Fixed the Georgia Constitution but Threw the Key Away to the Treasury.

"I have not been sent here to ask the public money for my constituents. For the eleven years I have been in the two Houses of Congress my constituents have never asked me to introduce one bill for their benefit, or the benefit of their pursuits, neither special nor general, and I have never introduced one."

Fiction? No. Though the quotation sounds like one from a political n vel of the Honorable Peter Sterling vintage, it came authentically from the Congressional Record, or its predecessor.

"If you are going to spend money wrongfully, if you are going to spend it profligately, I wish you to do it anywhere else but within the borders of my own state."

Those words, like the ones in the first quotation, actually were uttered by a member of the United States Senate. The last were spoken in opposition to an appropriation for the continuance of a Federal Government activity in the Senator's state.

But neither group of words was spoken recently. They were uttered in the eighteen fifties by Robert Toombs, of Georgia, an outstanding national political figure of that time and regarded by many students as one of the four or five ablest public men of the period. Savoyard, the noted Washington correspondent, has written that in his opinion Toombs was the ablest man of that day.

Many changes have occured since Toombs battled against wasteful spending and needless extension of governmental activity from Washington. Toombs, though a Congressional leader for nearly 20 years and the intimate friend of Daniel Webster, is now scarcely remembered as a statesman of national identity. Even when his career in Congress is recalled, his defense of Negro slavery is chiefly remembered. He resigned from the United States Senate when his state seceded in 1861 and the Confederacy was formed, and, unlike many other southern statesmen who survived the Civil War, he never made any effort to return to national public life. In fact, he became so embittered that he died without taking the oath of real-legiance to the Federal Government, though he lived for nearly 20 years after the Civil War ended and took active part in the politics of his state.

Thus his notable long fight against every Congressional move partaking of political "pork" has been obscured by the more striking features of his later life. And, instead of the scholarly statesman which on the whole he really was, he is remembered chiefly as a "fire-eating" Secessionist, which in reality he was not. He opposed secession until it was apparent that it could not be avoided, and while he was an intense pro-slavery-ite he admitted that there were many weaknesses in the South's "peculiar institution." Though he was given to picturesque language, he never said that he expected to call the roll of his slaves at the foot of Bunker Hill.

But regardless of Toomb's identity with the defense of slavery and his ultimate leading part in the secession movement, it is interesting to revive some of his utterances and actions on national matters having naught to do with those two mighty questions of 75 years ago.

Toombs was among the last of American statesmen to contend that the "general welfare" clause of the Federal Constitution did not authorize Congress to raise for and spend money on anything it pleases.

"Rivers and harbors bills were abominations in Toombs' sight." says Ulrich B. Phillips, his most recent biographer, because he considered them unconstitutional as well as corrupt. Again and again he resisted their enactment, now with fiery determination and now with unrestrained vehemence."

Discussing one in 1854, Toombs declared:

"The whole system is formulated on robbery, plunder and unequality and is supported for no other reason than because it is unjust. If the money which is appropriated to these improvements had to be paid out by each locality they would prefer a more convenient method of doing it; but it is because they expect to plunder other sections that they ask to pay themselves out of the common fund."

On another occasion, discussing a proposal that the Federal Government spend large sums on Mississippi River improvements, Toombs said:

"Senators, is it just? I tell you as God lives it is not just, and you ought not to do it. There is manhood in the people of the Mississippi Valley. Let them levy duties for their own rivers and ports . . . and charge the people who use them for the benefits conferred.

"Let the honest farmer who makes his hay in Vermont, who gathers his cheese, who raises his meal, be not taxed to increase your magnificent improvements of nature and your already gigantic wealth. Senators, it is unjust."

When confronted with log rolling methods of getting appropriations through Congress, Toombs said that the "letting of this sluice from the public treasury and letting it run at the will of the majority, I deem it so imortant that it may be worth an empire. We are called upon, on the idea of everybody helping everybody's bill, to vote for them all. There certainly can be no greater abandonment of public principle than this here presented."

How many members of Congress would dare repeat as their own the following words uttered by the famous southerner on the subject of legislative trading:

"If any man votes for one appropriation to get another, he votes corruptly and is unworthy of a seat on this floor. It is against all principles of honor."

What would Toombs who, when the cost of the Federal Government reached that sum, declared that $30,000,000 a year was "more than any government on earth is worth" say of the present cost which is 400 times that amount? Would he repeat without qualification, the following charge?

"I do not believe today there is as corrupt government on earth as that of these United States. And most of this corruption is in the legislative department."

But in view of the increasing number of appropriations made from the United States Treasury to the states on condition that they raise similar amounts and surrender certain prerogatives to the Federal Government, Toombs undoubtedly would reassert, with additional emphasis, the following statement:

"When the system shall have finally been established that the States are to enter into a miserable scramble for the most money for their local appropriations and that Senator is to be regarded the ablest representative of his state who can get for it the largest slice of the Treasury, from that day public honor and property are gone, and all the states are disgraced and degraded."

The insidious danger in practices now probably insuperably imbedded in our governmental scheme is shown by the following eloquent passage in a speech delivered by the Georgian while still a member of the United States Congress:

"The Constitution is based on the idea that where the interests of particular localities are at stake, men are not to be trusted; majorities are not to be relied upon; they are unjust; they will take advantages; the whole history of human life is daubed and blackened by the injustice and wrong of power."

Toombs' last public service was to frame the present constitution of the state of Georgia, which is notable for the checks it places on those in power with reference to the raising and spending of public funds. When he had finished the job, Toombs, drawing on his talent for epigram, declared: "I have locked the state treasury and thrown the key away."

If Bob Toombs lived at this time we wonder what he would say at the scandalous extravagance which is little short of criminal waste in the matter of building $100,000 post office buildings in small towns where the first floor of almost any building 25x100 at $50 per month would be ample post office facilities, or $1,000,000 for post office and grounds in Dallas when the present postal building at Main and Ervay with additional stories and the Jackson annex would last the city 10 years. In our opinion the men who allow the government robbed as it was robbed by the purchaser of a suburban farm entirely out of the business district in Dallas, or the same in Houston, New Orleans, St Louis and New York should be taken out and shot for treason or robbery, or put in lunatic asylums if they did not know any better.—Aaron Hardy Ulm, in Dearborn Independent.

WHAT TRUE EDUCATION IS

How often do you impress your children with the fact that there are only about so many years in which to make the most of getting an education?

To be sure one can and does study all through life.

But the first fifteen or twenty years of life make the man or the woman ,depending upon the quality and thoroughness of the education received in the school age period.

Do you select teachers with that thought in view—thoroughness.

Do you select schools with the idea of geting your child out among the world of workers as soon as possible.

Then you are wrong for it is not how soon the child graduates but how well does the child know the fundamentals and the application of them.

Lots of students know the rules—letter perfect, but when it comes to applying them in every day life they are babes because they have not been required to think enough in school.

Impress the kiddies with the fact that passing from one grade to another means nothing if the work done in one grade is forgotten in another.

The best teacher is the one who shows the student the relation of all knowledge and its application.—New Orleans States.

MONEY IN GERMANY

German prices are about 2000 times higher now than they were before the war.

If we had the same situation: A suit of clothes that cost $25 before the war would now be selling for $50,000. And a house that used to rent for $40 would now bring the landlord $80,000 a month.

It would be great sport, spending so much money—for a short time. But how would you like the job of trying to make your income rise as fast as cost of living, using German financial arithmetic?

DOWNFALL

Malaria caused the downfall of the civilizations of Rome and Greece, say anthrophologists at a convention of scientists in Boston. Both nations were free of malaria until it was brought in by slaves captured in battle, then spread by mosquitoes.

Smallpox germs carried by soldiers of Cortez who were almost immune against it, ravaged the Aztecs, weakened their military power until they were easily conjuered.

HOW WOULD A NICE MONTHLY CREAM CHECK SUIT YOU IN 1923

In some of the territory now ravaged by the boll weevil, we know farmers who many years ago decided that cream checks would be pretty good insurance against low prices and poor yields of cotton.

John Williams was one of these farmers. About 25 years ago he was growing cotton on poor land, just as others around him were doing. He decided it would be better to have some cotton and some cows than to have all cotton and no cows. He bought a few of the best cows he could find nearby and began milking them. To start with, he made butter. There were no creameries within shipping distance in those days.

John Williams started milking cows in the face of greater difficulties with reference to markets than prevail today. But he made good butter. It was always good, and he could always sell it at good prices. When John Williams died about 20 years ago his son took charge and continued from the point where he had left off.

Cream checks added to cotton money paid off the mortgage on John Williams' farm. Manure made the land richer. Growing corn and oats and cowpeas on which to feed cows afforded a chance for rotating and resting a part of the land each year. The fertility of the land has increased year by year. The yield per acre has likewise increased. Cows brought much more money to his farm than was represented in the face of the cream checks. The cows actually increased the money from cotton, pigs, and from from chickens and turkeys.

"Why don't you try keeping a few cows?" we once asked a farmer in that section, after we had been discussing the success attained on the Williams farm.

"It's too hard work," was the surprisingly frank reply. "Those cows have to be milked twice a day every day and that means Sunday. No sir, I don't want to milk cows for a living."

We have no fault to find with a man who feels this way about it. There are other sources of cash to be had. A man who doesn't like cows will do well to avoid them. He is not likely to succeed with them unless he has unusual will-power and determination. But milk cows help pay the expenses of running the cotton farm if they are given a chance. "We are getting $45 a month from our cream checks," a cotton farmer said recently. "We are milking just a few cows,' he added, "and next year we expect to milk more. We want to bring this up to $100 a month from cream checks. That will just about pay running expenses. I grow all the feed needed and put the balance of the land in cotton."

Thoughtful farmers who start out to draw cream checks are beginning with just a few cows. A a rule, they don't have much feed to start with. As they grow more feed, they milk more cows until they reach the number they find they can best handle.

Don't think you must start with 100 cows and all sorts of expensive equipment. Make your start in a wholly modest way. The small cotton farmer can best afford to begin with three or four cows, and gradually increase to six or eight. When he has succeeded with that number he can figure out for himself whether to try more.—The Progressive Farmer.

"HONESTY IS THE BEST POLICY"

The great Lincoln first preached this five word sermon. On this great principle the Lincoln Fire Insurance Company of Nashville, Tenn. has built its splendid success. Honesty sometimes takes the place of genius, in one's success, always it marks the dwelling place of wisdom.

The president and builder of the above company makes the following straight forward statement about our famous itch remedy.

"My daughter caught the itch or eczema while attending High School in this city. Her annoyance was great and I was dilligently in search of a remedy. I was finally advised by an old friend to use 'Spiva's One Night Itch Remedy,' and one application did the work—It does all that you claim for it.

Respectfully yours,
B. B. Coffey."

The utilization for commercial purposes of Spanish moss, the picturesque growth which travelers observe among the branches of trees in the South, is sketched by a writer in the January number of the Illinois Central Magazine. The moss is used for stuffing upholstery and automobile cushions and for decorative purposes. Spanish moss thrives best in a moist swampy atmosphere. It is gathered by hand by persons who climb the trees or pick off the moss strands with hooked poles. The moss is dried on wire supports and later cleaned by machinery. The best grade of black hair moss brings about 5 cents a pound. At present, it is said, the demand exceeds the supply.

Feared Her Heart Was Going To Stop Beating

This Is The Way Mrs. Otto Bletsch Describes Her Feelings—Had Suffered Three Years, But Stella Vitae Made New Woman of Her.

"I had such awful spells that I really was afraid my heart would burst and stop beating," said Mrs. Otto Bletsch, R.F.D. No. 1, Box 83, Otto, Texas.

"I was in a mighty bad way from female disorders for three years," she continued, "and tried all kinds of medicines and treatments, but nothing helped me but Stella Vitae.

"Everything seemed to be wrong with me. My head ached like it would split, misery in my back and pains in my legs almost laid me low and I got so nervous I just couldn't sleep to do any good. I was badly constipated, had no appetite and indigestion made me miserable after every meal. I would almost go blind with those dizzy spells that would come on without warning and I simply despaired of getting well.

"One bottle of Stella Vitae made me feel like a different woman, and a little more of the treatment restored my health and made me the happiest woman in the State."

It is not claimed that Stella Vitae will overcome diseases in every case where it is used, but it is known that this preparation has accomplished remarkable results in thousands of instances, and every woman who is suffering from female complaints owes it to herself to obtain relief by immediately taking Stella Vitae.

Note—Stella Vitae may be obtained from any druggist and is sold upon the positive guarantee that the purchase price will be refunded if it fails to bring relief. Druggists are supplied from the Van Vleet-Mansfield Drug Co., Memphis, Tenn., Distributors.—Adv.

BOSTWICK-WILLIAMS PLAYERS IN GRENADA ALL NEXT WEEK

The following represents the Jackson (Mississippi) press comment and the Bostwick-Williams Players, appearing in Grenada under their own waterproof tent, which is heated and seated like a theatre, all next week beginning Monday, the 22nd:

"We have with us this week the Bostwick-Williams Players. It is one of the best shows that has ever entered our town. We welcomed it when it first came, but the longer it stays the more impressed our people become as to what a week's pleasure (and not only pleasure, for in every act of each play there is a moral to be drawn) on the mind's vision means to them.

"The company consists of thirty members—actors, actresses and musicians, talented to the highest degree in his or her part. The leading man, Mr. Leon ("Jim") Bostwick, has had no equal in this town as a stage artist. This is the sentiment of the people and not individuals. This is a splendid organization. It is absolutely clean in every respect. A person can carry his family there and return home without any feeling of resentment or remorse for anything that was either said or done."

SNAP AND DASH IN TRIM LINES OF NEW OVERLAND

New trim lines with a snap and dash that have heretofore been associated only with high priced cars, are evidenced in the new Overland now being exhibited—a complete car—plus.

The new Overland represents the concentrated efforts of one of the largest automobile manufacturing organizations in the world to furnish the American public with luxurious motoring at the lowest possible cost, a car that the average American family can take pride in, and can drive for years without trouble and expensive upkeep.

Considering the proven economy of this car, proven in its performance to nearly 1,000,000 owners, and the completeness of its design and equipment, the price at which it is offered strikes a new note in the low cost of transportation controversy.

MISSISSIPPI OWES $13,446,500

The total payable bonded indebtedness of the state of Mississippi is $13,446,500.00, including the short term notes sold in 1922 to cover the state treasury deficit. These startling figures have been obtained by The Hinds County Gazette from Hon. Ben S. Lowry, the accurate and accomodating chief clerk in the state treasurer's office.

The date of issuance of such bonds the date of their maturity, the rate of interest, and purpose for which they were issued cannot fail to interest every taxpayer in Mississippi.

The Startling Details

According to the painstaking and accurate figures of Chief Clerk Lowry—while bonds have been maturing annually—new bond issues have increased from $5,843,750 in January 1920 to $13,446,500 on January 1, 1923.

In 1904, $500,000 3½ per cent bonds, maturing in 1934 were issued for current expenses in state government.

In 1907, $137,000 3½ per cent bonds maturing in 1927 were issued to pay bonds maturing at that time.

In 1910, $264,000, 4 per cent bonds, maturing in 1930, were issued for current expenses.

In 1914, $1,250,000, 4½ per cent bonds were issued to pay bonds maturing at that time and to make improvements at the state institutions. These bonds mature in 1934.

In 1919, $755,250, 4¼ per cent bonds were issued to pay bonds maturing on that date and improvements at the state institutions. These bonds mature annually to 1936.

In 1918, $3,000,000, 5¼ per cent bonds were issued to defray expenses of the state government. These bonds mature annually to 1934.

In 1920, 4,711,000 in 4½ per cent, 4⅜ per cent, and 5½ per cent bonds were issued for permanent improvements at the various state institutions. These bonds mature annually until 1946.

In 1922, $3,500,000, 4½ per cent short term notes were issued to pay outstanding warrants and current expenses of the state government for 1922. These short term notes mature May 1. 1924.

Dates of Liquidation

Mississippi is liquidating the above bonds, including annual interest thereon, as follows: In 1923, $1,011,880; in 1924, $4,524,692.50; in 1925, $923,655; in 1926, $899,942.50; in 1927, $1,012,230; in 1928, $845,722.50; in 1929, $821,010; in 1930, $1,061,297.50; in1931, $761,025; in 1932, $736,312.50; in 1933, $711,630; in 1934, $1,826,387.50; in 1935, $355,175; in 1936, $487,775; in 1937, $284,995, and generally reducing until 1947.

Senator McCallum, of Jones, a painstaking, conscientous and able legislator, states that the legislature to be elected this year, which will assemble Tuesday after the first Monday in January, 1924, will face a deficit of $6,000,000.

The People Not Informed

There is no provision in law or the constitution that the people shall be informed in advance by the legislature of its purpose to issue bonds. The issuance of county and municipal bonds, or bonds for school and road districts, is an entirely different matter from the issuance of state bonds. These latter bonds cannot be issued except published notice is given of the intention to issue them. And when such notice is given, a very small percentage of the people—as few as 10 or 20 per cent—can petition and require that an election be held to determine whether such bonds shall be issued. In addition to this safeguard, the people in a small territory can see, and do see, how the money derived from a bond sale is spent, and can determine whether the money is spent wisely and honestly. But the issuance of bonds by the state is a wholly different matter.

Interest Something Fierce

One of the highest functions of the state government is the power of issuing bonds. It is a great power, an important power, and one in the exercise of which the most far reaching results for good or evil may be brought about.

Bonds generally stretch over a long period of time for payment, the interest only being paid annually or semi-annually, or at such times as may be agreed upon. The interest on a 20-year $5,000,000 at 5 per cent amounts to as much as the bond itself. In other words while a bond is issued for $5,000,000 to run 20 years, the bond and the interest thereon casts the taxpayers $10,000,000.

Campaign Issue

Bond issues are becoming a lively issue in the campaign for the democratic nomination for governor and for legislative offices. Publication that the aggregate bonded indebtedness of the 82 counties of Mississippi—not to mention municipal bonds—is around $50,000,000 has become the talk of the state.

The publication of the fact that the payable bonded indebtedness of Mississippi of $13,446,500 as above set forth including the short term notes sold in 1922 to cover the deficiency in the state treasury, cannot fail to tremendously accentuate interest among the taxpayers in the fiscal affairs of Mississippi.

Food for Thought

The people who pay bonds and especially the interest on bonds are largely not the people who receive the money for the sale of the bonds. In many instances long years after those who have sold bonds and received the money and spent it are dead, their children and their children's children are toiling to pay taxes on maturing bonds issued by their fathers and grand father. So there is quite a difference between issuing bonds and paying bonds.

The taxpayers seem to have fully come to appreciate the fact that a state bond issue is a mortgage on the future of the state, just as a county of municipal bond issue is a mortgage on the homes and farms of the people.

A Remedy Should Be Found

Complaint has been made for the past 15 or 20 years, that bills providing for the issuing of bonds which the men and women of the future must pay, have been introduced in some instances during the last days of legislative session and hurried through without due consideration being given them, when the people knew practically nothing of them, and did not have the time to organize a protest.

Bonds have been issued to pay the running expenses of the government which is fundamentally wrong, as it is violative of every rule and principal of sound economy.

The ideal condition is one in which wise men—meaning the legislators and others intrusted with governmental control—so direct the financial affairs of the state government that progress is made, that taxes are kept low, and that no bonds at all are issued to be a mortgage on the future, where the same can possibly be averted.—The Hinds County Gazette.

ALABAMA NEWSPAPERS BOOST PAT HARRISON

We are for Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, as successor to Oscar Underwood as minority leader in the Senate. Senator Harrison has demonstrated his ability in many hard-fought battles with the Republican majority. Senator Underwood's retirement as leader is a distinct loss to the party, but ill health forces him to decline to serve longer. We hope the Senate will confer the honor on our neighbor state's senator.—Greenville Advocate.

We heartily endorse the above from The Greenville Advocate, and trust that, in spite of the modesty of the young and brainy Mississippian, in yielding the honor to older men, that he will be selected as leader by the Senate Democrats, for the good of the party and of the country.—Montgomery Times.

WEEKLY LETTER FROM STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

By W. F. Bond, State Superintendent

The Conference of the Superintendents and Principals of the Agricultural High Schools of the State was a great success in every way. Forty of the forty-nine Superintendents were present, Cripples from all over the State to the number of fifty or sixty came to Jackson Friday and Saturday, the 12th and 13th, for free examination by Dr. Guy Caldwell, Surgeon-in-Chief of the Shriners' Hospital located at Shreveport. Another opportunity will be given later for cripples under the age of fourteen years who could not come this time.

The flue is hindering the work of our schools considerably in some counties. Let's not get panicky, and keep in mind that in the long run everything happens for the best.

Since there was no public fund with which we could pay our attorneys in the school fund fight we are having to depend upon private subscriptions to take care of the matter. While our lawyers did not charge a regular fee, we hope to make up a good purse for them.

WORLD PRODUCTION OF COTTON

Careful investigation of the statistical data relative to the world production of cotton since the year 1800 indicates that there has been but a slight average increase in the annual production of cotton for the past twenty years. In this connection, it is interesting to note that while the United States produced only 13.20 per cent of the world cotton in 1800-10, it produced 61.68 per cent in 1920. The United States has approximated an average annual production of 60 per cent of the entire world supply since 1860, notwithstanding the enormous expenditure of money and effort by foreign governments to increase cotton production in other countries. There has been only a slight average increase of production of raw cotton in foreign countries during the past twenty years. There is so much being said and written about the probability of American cotton growers losing their monopoly of cotton production unless they grow more cotton and cheaper cotton, that the figures on production since 1800 are published below for information on the subject. The following table on world cotton production 1800 to 1921 and percentage of the crop produced in the United States was compiled by the National City Bank of New York and published in the Manufacturers Record of July 13th. (000 is omitted in the tabulation of production):

Annual Average	World	United States	All Others	per ct U. S.

1912	24,158	13,703	10,455	56.72
1913	25,769	14,136	11,660	54.79
1914	26,022	16,135	9,887	62.00
1915	22,175	11,192	10,893	50.47
1916	22,678	11,450	11,228	50.48
1917	20,970	11,302	9,668	53.89
1918	20,461	12,041	8,420	58.84
1919	23,023	11,421	11,602	49.60
1920	15,593	8,340	7,253	53.48

Another interesting fact brought out in connection with these statistics is that cotton is now recognized and adopted as the world's chief reliance for textile fabrics for clothing. In the year 1920 the world produced 17 times as much cotton as was produced in 1800, while the increase in wool production, the nearest competitor to cotton, was only five times as great in 1920 as in 1800. It has been shown that the South produces 84 per cent of the good quality cotton of the world of the ⅞-inch staple and above. This great monopoly in the cotton growing industry of the world will continue to be held and maintained even upon an ever-increasing basis to meet the demand of consumption, provided the price paid to the growers covers cost plus a reasonable profit. This statement is made without reservation, even in the face of the boll weevil infestation and damage. Effort to increase production of cotton in foreign fields will never materialize upon a serious competitive basis with production in this country so long as the American growers are reasonably compensated by the textile trade for the labor and capital invested in the industry.—Cotton News.

WOULD RATHER BE A GREAT FATHER

We take the following incident from the Western Christian Advocate. It needs no comment. It is certainly worth while being quoted many times. Said a small boy to his father: " 'What would you like to be, father?' 'I do not know what I would rather be,' responded the father. The boy pressed him: 'What would you like to be, father, a great poet or a great statesman or a great scientist or a great inventor?' The father picked him up in his arms and said as he pressed his lips to the little fellow's cheek: 'I would rather be a great father.' Such a resolution would save many a man from the heartbreak of disappointment in the life of his son."—California Christian Advocate.

5,285 INSPECTIONS PER CAR

The faithfulness of performance so universally remarked in Dodge Brothers Motor Cars, is due, in no small part, to the thoroughness with which each unit is inspected during the process of manufacture and assembly.

A trained staff of 1100 experts is employed in this work alone, and approximately 5,285 inspections are made on each car.

So exacting and rigid are the standards applied to these inspections that the slightest variation, either in workmanship or material, is sufficient cause for immediate rejection.

Dodge Brothers are almost over-scrupulous in their constant aim to make each car as sound and perfect as is humanly possible.

RICHARDSON SAYS NON-CHURCH MEMBERS HOPING

"The non church members who attend the Gipsy Smith meeting are hoping that some of the church members will get enough religion out of it to keep them from slandering them, and for once let real christianity have the ascendency over personal malice. If such a thing could happen in Indianoia it would make this a far better city than it is at present."

The above is taken from the Sunflower Tocsin edited by our good friend, Joe Richardson. Joe must have some sure enough talking church members in Indianola, but we are persuaded that Joe was jesting when he used the word "slandering."

But regardless of what sort of church members Indianola may have or how much its non-church members do that they should be talked about, our high regard for Joe's ability, his sense of justice and his devotion to the highest ideals, prompts us to say to him that he should put into effect what we feel that we know the wooings of his heart bids him to do, and then become one of the church members so that he might induce them to talk about higher and better things rather than what he seems to think some of them are now doing.

There is not a member of the Mississippi press who has more of pathos and lofty sentiment about him than Joe Richardson. In many respects he is a prince. He would not knowingly do a living soul an injustice. He has read the classics. He has traveled a great deal. His soul is tender and the sweeter things of life appeal to his heart quickly. Much has been given him, therefore much is required of Joe.

Our good friend does not know what a great number would be thrilled to know that he had publicly lined up with those who are making an attempt, however weak and failing it may be, to hold up the banner of Christ.

There is no use hair splitting about appropriations by the next legislature. The man who insists that the record of the present legislature should be endorsed by duplicating the appropriations it made, should be consigned to political oblivion, or shot at sun rise a cable's length from shore where the tide ebbs and flows only semi-occasionally.

More cheap politicians have committed political suicide in Mississippi in the last four or five years than can be found undertakers to inter. But for the odor they have left, they would soon be forgotten. A frightened skunk puts up no sign boards, yet it is not a difficult thing to know when you cross the trail one has made.

A bottle of medicine might contain good or bad medicine--something to get your money or something to make you feel better.

WHITE WHITAKER IN RACE FOR SUPERVISOR, DISTRICT 5

The Sentinel is asked to announce to the voters of district 5, Grenada County, that Mr. W. W. Whitaker is a candidate for supervisor of that district.

Mr. Whitaker is a young man. He has a well trained mind. In view of the fact that so much road work is being done, his training and experience as civil engineer would stand him well in hand as supervisor, and should be of marked benefit not only to his district, but to the entire County. It is a rare thing that any County ever has a supervisor who knows anything about surveying or the work of an engineer. Mr. Whitaker, after he left college, was employed for a long while as civil engineer by a concern which had perhaps the largest contract for excavating that was ever awarded in the State of Georgia.

Since Mr. Whitaker returned from the army, he has been devoting his time and energies to the farm. He is conversant with the needs of the farmers. He knows the business conditions of his County and of his State and The Sentinel feels sure, that if he is chosen supervisor, he will act conservatively about all matters, and that every proposition presented will receive his careful consideration, and that he will do his level best to see that there is no waste of public money.

Mr. Whitaker is a dependable man. He has a head full of common sense. Notwithstanding the fact that he is one of the best educated men in the County, he lives the life of just the plain citizen and is wholly unpretentious. He has a discerning mind and is capable of doing large things.

It is a hopeful sign when such well equipped young men as Mr. Whitaker consent to offer for public office and The Sentinel feels sure that his candidacy will receive due consideration by the voters of that district.

CIRCUIT COURT CONVENES MONDAY

State Cases To Be Called Monday. Civil Docket Tuesday.

The winter term of the circuit Court of Grenada County is to convene at the court house Monday. Judge Lamb announces that the State docket will be called Monday and that not until Tuesday will attention be given to the civil docket. Still runners had best roost high next week or go into a hole and pull the hole in after them.

L. T. HAYDEN ANNOUNCES FOR SUPERVISOR

Mr. L. T. Hayden authorizes The Sentinel to place his name before the voters of district 5, as a candidate for the office of supervisor.

Mr. Hayden is a native of district 5. He was born and reared across Yalobusha river within a few miles of where he now resides. He is in the true sense of the word, a self-made man. His early struggles and privations out of which he has come, stamp him as an individual of worthy motives, of indefatigable energy and of determined purpose. He is a good citizen in every sense of the word and stands for those things in society that go to strengthen the law-enforcing authorities and that insure the safety of the home and the encouragement of the church.

He has made a business success and therefore can be expected to have that conception of business affairs, and how public expenditures effect property and prosperity, that will tend to stabilize public expenditures and that will be reassuring to those who bear the burdens of taxation.

Mr. Hayden served for a while as a member of the board of supervisors, an experience that should stand him well in hand, should he be successful in his race for supervisor. Should Mr. Hayden be elected, The Sentinel feels sure that district five and the people of the entire County will have a man on the Board who is absolutely honest and who is imbued with a sincere desire to administer the affairs of the County in a sensible, business-like manner.

MANY NEW SUBSCRIBERS

Several Write They "Want the Correct Political Dope".

The Sentinel has been favored during the past few weeks with many new additions to its subscription list, and quite a number of them have come from beyond the confines of Grenada County. Got letter just the other day from a prominent lawyer who stated "must have The Sentinel this year to get the correct political dope. Like the way you tell it." We appreciate every subscriber on our list and always try to relate news items as they are told to us, and on matters where we give editorial expression, we try to write so as to make ourselves understood.

CHILD FALLS FROM STAIRWAY

One of the "McCormick twins", little Ed, a six year old child, fell from the railing at the landing, before reaching the second story, at the Barwick home on Monday afternoon and sustained such injuries about the head that rendered him unconscious for about twelve hours, and made his recovery a matter of doubt. However, he rallied the next day, and his condition is regarded as satisfactory at this writing, Wednesday afternoon.

door plate has rusted from his door and a new name is over his store or factory, he may shine as a star in the firmament of God forever.

When I think of the origin and destiny of the Church, I am filled with hope. Some will say "You have forgotten her past." I hasten to acknowledge that She has often trailed Her garments in the dust, that She has more than once denied Her Lord, and done despite to His passion and commands, that the light which was to lighten the world has been almost smothered in the ashes of her own undoing. I know she has been mighty to mar, as well as to make the days of her apostasy and her sins stand out so dark as to shadow the centuries, and we call them the "Dark Ages", but I also remember the fervor of her devotion. I know the purity of the men who were true to her. I can see the little trembling church, represented by the white faced company of martyrs waiting the rush of the lions in the arena.

And if the Church is only a narrow organization, decorated in ecclesiastical milinery, there is only one answer and that is negative. But the Church of which I speak is not that sort. It is the Church of the living God; it is a dear and sacred thing. It will last when the sun grows cold and the stars are old, and the leaves of the judgment book unfold. Not your denomination nor mine, but the Church of the Living God. All other organizations will disappear.

Jesus never said "My Wife" for He never had a wife. He never said "My Child" for the joy which a father knows who hears the prattle of his first born, Jesus never knew. He who builded homes for other people, never had one of His own. But He did say "My Father," and He did say "My Church," and He said "I will build it." So I say again, the Church of the Living God, built by pierced hands, is to last forever. The stars will burn down to their sockets and go out, but the Church will shine in unabating brilliancy when suns and planets are no more.

Whatever may have been her reflections, bad as she may have been in the press of temptations, within and without, it has always been true that in every age of the world's history, she has been in that particular age the holiest and purest thing alive. No other agency has been able to show her a better way. Her regeneration has come from within and not from without. There was always a saving remnant—a few names that had not defouled their garments. God was still with her and she has never forgotten her relationship to Him. And this is true today. She is the bulwark of the world's hope.

We speak about faith in God, has it ever occurred to you to think of God's faith in us? It seems to me we can see the evidence of God's faith in men in natural things as we look out into the world. He seems to have built a world and fitted it so that men might unravel its mysteries and exploit all its hidden powers. He packed the gold and the silver and the iron in the bowels of the earth and said "Sometime men will seek them out and find how to use them." He packed the carbon in great ebony veins and said "Some day men wil find that they can warm their homes with the very rocks of the earth." The lightnings flashed through the sky only to shiver and destroy, but God said "Some day man will find out how to put a bit in their mouth and send them on copper hoofs to carry the burdens of the world." The rivers ran rippling and roaming aimlessly to the sea, but God said "Some day men will find out how to harness their wasted power and where they roll on their way with monotonous rumble, the spindle and the loom will leap into song." And then God waited. Nobody knows who invented the first wedge or paddle or the first sail, or the first wheel, but somebody found out how to use them. Some Stecensone and Fulton and Morse and Marconi found out how to strip the lightnings of their harmful power and how to drive a steamer with 50,000 tons of burden over a mountain of water three miles high and land them at the wharves of another hemisphere. Somebody found out how to make the air vocal and to annihilate distance, and to bind men of all nations together in personal and intimate touch. Measured on a physical basis it looks as if God's confidence in men had been justified, and at last after milleniums of waiting man has come into his own. Will the same thing be true in the spiritual sense?

In nature it has been written—first the blade, then the ear, then the full corn in the ear. In human character the same law holds.

NOTICE TO CAR OWNERS, COMMERCIAL MOTOR VEHICLE OWNERS AND TO MOTOR CYCLE, OR TWO WHEELED VEHICLE OWNERS.

Your car licenses are due and must be paid during the month of January, or I shall be required to add 100 per cent penalty. The sheriff has no discretion in the matter. The law is mandatory, and however disagreeable or unpleasant it might be to me, I shall have to follow the law. All car owners of every kind are due to pay license. The owner of every vehicle of whatever kind that is propelled by another than muscular power is required to pay license. Of course such vehicles as fire engines or ambulances are exempt. The law applies to motor cycles or any vehicle where two wheels touch the ground. I therefore want to urge those who own any of these cars or other vehicles to come forward without delay and get your license. We are excedingly busy at the sheriff's office collecting taxes, all of which become delinquent after Feb. 1, and if everybody waits, it might be that we could not wait on all of our friends the last day. Your attention is most respectfully called to these matters.

TAXES DELINQUENT AFTER FEB. 1

As almost everybody knows, all taxes of whatsoever kind, are delinquent after Feb. 1. I therefore want to ask the taxpayers not to overlook this very important matter and to be sure to come to the Sheriff's office between now and Feb. 1, and pay taxes. The law extending the time to April 1, before damages could be added, applied to last year only, and is not in force and effect now. Furthermore, a failure to pay taxes on or by Feb. 1, disqualifies one for voting that year. If it is not convenient for any taxpayer to come to the Sheriff's office, and if he or she will request it, we shall be glad to mail a statement of taxes due, and one can remit by check or otherwise. We are ready to serve you in any way we can, but the law positively states the date at which all taxes become delinquent.

Jan. 12, 1923.

Committee on Slaughter House

To the Mayor and Board of Aldermen, City of Grenada, Miss.:

Gentlemen:

We beg to submit as your committee on the proposition of a slaughter house. This our report follows: The committee fully realizes that the consumers of fresh meats need protection by proper inspection of all animals before killing and the carcasses at the time of slaughter. But as an abattoir ,meat markets ,dair ycows, would make the town somewhat accountable to the state sanitary board we feel that the entire business should be owned and under the control of the city. We would also advise when such work may be started that not only the animals and meats be inspected. It should include abbottoir if constructed in the city etc., that are furnishing milk to the public. Such places should be regularly inspected and the cows tested annually for tuberculosis, as milk is one of the greatest sources of transmitting tuberculosis from animals to humans. We are of the opinion that it could be very satisfactory under any kind of management in a city to properly conduct a slaughter house and inspect meats. However, we feel the objections that might arise could in the course of time be ovecome to the satisfaction of most every one. But after due and careful consideration of the matter and finding the first clause of the state sanitary regulations reads so as to say no person firm or corporation shall erect, maintain or keep any slaughter house upon the bank of any river. Therefore we respectfully advise that this matter be deferred until the city is better able to undertake the proposition.

W. E. Jackson, Wm. P. Ferguson,
Committee.

Ordered that the board adjourn.

H. G. Talbert, City Recorder.

Do not hesitate because it costs so little, in truth, many insurance policies cost too much. We are only enabled to make this extra ordinary offer because of some special arrangements we have made.

Some of the largest daily newspapers in the United States, more than 200 of them in all, are offering this same insurance policy contract to their readers. Among the newspapers it might be mentioned that President Harding's paper, the Marion Star, at Marion, Ohio; The Washington City Herald; The Times Journal and scores upon scores of other newspapers.

Knowing that there is nothing too good for Sentinel readers, we made an investigation and got the privilege of selling these polices to our readers.

No such opportunity was ever before offered as this Reader Insurance Policy. It is a bonafide travel andaccident policy put out by an Old Line Insurance Company.

While doing a real,a genuine, service for our readers, we make it easier for one to pay his or her subscription.

The cost is just a little over 1-4 of one cent a day--just think of it. Who would not be willing to double this small amount tomorrow morning as a guarantee against accidents?

DON'T DELAY. TIME IS TOO PRECIOUS. A C C I-DENTS ARE TOO FRE=QUENT. THINK ABOUT WHAT SECURITY A $1000 ACCIDENT INSURA N C E POLICY WILL MAKE YOU FEEL.

The policy is issued to both men and women between the ages of 16 and 70 for white and colored people. No red tape. No medical examination required.

The newspapers are full of stories of automobile and other accidents every day. You may be the next.

The Sentinel believed that it would be doing something worth while if it could find a way to protect its readers against such misfortunes at a small cost.

EPIDEMIC OF WHOOPING COUGH

County Health Officer Makes Statement to Public.

I know that there are a number of cases of whooping cough in Grenada County, and from information which I have obtained, I am sure that it has reached the point that the County is threatened with an epidemic of it. It is a disease that often proves very dangerous to children. I wish to advise parents and school authorities that children who have whooping cough, or those from homes afflicted with it, should not be allowed to come to school, and where children are at school and known to have it, they should be sent home. Safety demands that children afflicted with whooping cough should be kept at home for a period of six weeks. I ask the aid and the cooperation of the parents of the County and I trust I shall not be called on to enforce the regulations herein indicated, as I am authorized and empowered to do, by law. I especially enjoin the school teachers of the County to be on the alert for whooping cough among their pupils. Wise action on their part may save the practical breaking up of their schools for this session.

January 12, 1923.

Respectfully,
R. A. CLANTON,
Health Officer Grenada County.

HON. SAM I. OSBORN OF GREENWOOD

The writer had the pleasure of welcoming to this office Saturday, last week, Hon. Sam I. Osborn of Greenwood. Having had the opportunity in visiting Greenwood, to somewhat take the measure of Mr. Osborn, it is with no small degree of pleasure that The Sentinel has the privilege of stating that he is regarded as amongst the most brilliant legal luminaries of the State, and as a citizen who stands four-square in all the essentials of good citizenship and stable government. Mr. Osborn is a student. He has a logical mind. He believes in going to the very root of any legal matter. Hence there is no surprise that one of his age stands among those at the top of the Greenwood bar, a city long famed for having some of the best lawyers in its midst of any town in Mississippi.

Mr. Osborn was recently elected president of the Chamber of Commerce of Greenwood and from what is appearing in the public press, it appears that that important business organization means to make itself a potent force for furthering the business and civic interests of LeFlore County.

But above and beyond his professional life, Mr. Osborn is an upright citizen, a loyal friend, a good neighbor and a man who delights in rendering his fellows a genuine service. It is little wonder that a man of his ability and of his traits of character is being associated with many of the big matters of his State.

Farm Demonstrators Meet In Grenada

The following letter from Mr. Lawrence Olson, district farm agent, to Mr. W. B. Hoffa speaks for itself. The Sentinel feels sure that Grenada will give these visitors a most cordial welcome, and it is hoped that out of the meeting may come many good things, and especially that something will be agreed upon looking to a still further development of the Fair. The letter is dated Carrollton, Miss., Dec. 26:

"The Extension Workers of North Mississippi in connection with some persuasion from myself have decided to hold their annual spring meeting again at Grenada on January 30th, 31st and February 1st. It was the general opinion of the workers that the meeting last year was the best that we had ever had and we are anticipating a still better meeting this year because there are more of us and I believe that you leaders at Grenada understand our problems just a little better.

"There will be around 45 to 50 present for the three days and on the afternoon of Wednesday the 31st we want a conference with the fair officials looking to a greater North Mississippi Fair and I am sure that with proper inducement that we can interest at least fifteen or twenty of these men in staging a general county exhibit next fall.

"I am enclosing a copy of this letter to Mr. Sam Cain and we want to assure you both that it is out of our friendship and cordial relations received at your hands in the past that we are bringing the greatest force for the advancement of agriculture in Mississippi to Grenada after very strong bids from Tupelo, Corinth, Aberdeen and other cities."

MISSISSIPPI COUNTY AGENTS' GROUP MEETINGS

According to an announcement given out by J. W. Willis, State Agent and Assistant Director of Farm Demonstration work in Mississippi, there will be three group meetings of the Mississippi County Agents, the first to be held at Stoneville, second at Gulfport, and third at Grenada.

The program at Grenada will cover a three days period beginning January 30 at 9 a.m. and lasting until February 2. Dr. C. B. Smith and Mr. H. E. Savely of Washington, Dr. D. C. Hull, Director R. S. Wilson and Mr. W. B. Hoffa will deliver addresses. In the afternoon county agents will give reports on their plan of work for 1923. January 31, in the morning, county agents will continue reports on plans of their work for 1923 and in the afternoon addresses will be delivered by C. T. Ames, Director Holly Springs Experiment Station and I. W. Hill, in charge Boys' Club Work, Washington, D. C. The following day, Feb. 1, county agents will complete their reports an dplans of work for 1923. At the close of the afternoon program, a marketing discussion will be led by T. M. Patterson, State Marketing Agent.

These programs will cover the field which includes the many phases of county agent and extension work. It is hoped that not only extension workers will be present ot the programs each hour, but that people livin the vicinity of Stoneville, Gulfport and Grenada will avail themselves of the opportunity of attending.

MISSISSIPPI RAISES GOOD CROPS IN 1922

Mississippi raised approximately $226,308,000 worth of crops during 1922, according to the report of D. A. McCandliss, statistician in this state for the U. S. Department of Agriculture. This is over eighty million dollars more that the value of last year's crops, and is the highest since 1919. Although the cash value of this season's crops is higher than that of 1913, 1914, 1915, or 1916, the total purching power of the Mississippi farmers' crops is somewhat less than that of the pre-war years, owing to the increased prices of the things the farmers have to buy.

Since the money value of Mississippi's cotton crop is more than the value of all other crops combined the greater part of the increase over last year is due to the cotton situation. In this state present indications are that there were around 1,010,000 bales raised this year, or nearly two hundred thousand bales more than in 1921. The price on December 1st was also much higher than it was a year ago, averaging 24.1c a pound as compared with 16.6c in December 1921, so that this year's cotton crop is worth $116,447,000, which is nearly fifty million dollars more than that of last year.

The corn crop is smaller than last year, but is worth nearly twelve million dollars more because of increased prices. The total production this year is around 51,065,000 bushels which at the average December 1st price of 85c a bushel is worth about $43,405,000.

595,000 tons of hay were made this season, which is 63,000 tons more than last year. The value of the crop on December 1st was $8,493,000, which is nearly a million dollars more than the value of the 1921 crop.

While there was not much increase in the acreage of sweet potatoes this sason, the average yield was considerably higher than last year, making the total crop about 11,445,000 worth $7,897,000 at the average December 1st proce of 69c.

LYNCHING STATISTICS FOR 1922

Mississippi Stands Third in the List

The following data relative to lynchings has been given out by Dr. Robert R. Moton, head of the Tuskegee Institute, located at Tuskegee, Ala., for the year 1922. The 57 lynched does not include persons killed in strikes and riots:

There were 57 persons lynched in 1922. This is 7 less than the number 64 for the year 1921. Thirty of the persons lynched were taken from the hands of the law; 13 from jails, and 17 from officers of the law outside of jails.

There were 58 instances in which officers of the law prevented lynchings. Fourteen of these instances were in Northern States and 44 in Southern States. In 54 of the cases the prisioners were removed or the guards were augmented or other precautions taken. In the 4 other instances, armed force was used to repel the would be lynchers. In ten instances, convictions carrying penitentiary sentences were secured against alleged lynchers.

Of the 57 persons lynched in 1922, 51 were negroes and 6 were whites; 19 or one-third of those put to death were charged with rape or attempted rape; 6 of the victims were burned to death; 4 were put to death and then their bodies burned. The charges against those burned to death were murder, 2; rape, 4.

The offenses charged against the whites were: murder, 2; fighting 1; charges not reported, 3. The offenses charged against the negroes were murder, 9; muderous assault, 4; rape, 14; attempted rape, 5; killing officer of the law, 3; horse stealing, 2; being intimate with woman, 2; no special charge, 2; killing man in altercation, 1; striking man in quarrel, 1; robbing and striking a woman, 1; cattle stealing, 1; using insulting language, 1; for being a strike breaker, 1; mistaken identity, 2; indecent exposure of person and frightening woman and children, 1; intimidating officer of the law, 1.

The nine States in which lynchings occured and the number in each state are as follows: Alabama, 2; Arkansas 5; Florida, 5; Georgia, 11; Louisiana, 3; Mississippi, 9; Oklahoma, 1; South Carolina, 1; Tennessee, 2; Texas, 18.
